Sentry - GDPR Made Easier

Every organisation that holds personal data must comply with the GDPR. You must be able to respond to a subject access request and manage a breach, no matter what size you are or what industry you're in.

Sentry makes the basic tasks of compliance easier. It cuts the time to respond to a situation and at the same time ensures the capture of the right information. You can create the compliance regime that suits you.

Sentry - safe and secure

Sentry was designed to make GDPR compliance easier. It was also created to be secure.

Your data is hosted on Microsoft Azure servers in the UK and your records are isolated from other customers.

We use Microsoft's secure password management system meaning we never store your credentials.

Sentry for Schools

Some Customers

Sentry can play a vital part in any school's toolkit for compliance. No other system brings all the elements of data protection into a single place.

The Compliance Module allows schools to have confidence that their systems and processes are in place and up to standard. But above everything else, Sentry can save schools time and money.

With one place to store and manage all your information, your response to an incident can be co-ordinated, informed and swift.

For Up Holland High School, in Lancashire, having Sentry not only allows the team to work together, but also to share information directly with their data protection officer when and if they need advice.

Sentry to protect your organisation

If you have a failure in your data protection and a data subject suffers due to it, the ICO may determine you're at fault. You may not get fined, but legal action may be brought directly against you.

Sentry gives you the tools to ensure you have:

- Checked your compliance against the ICO's own checklists
- Provided essential training to all your staff
- Documentation to show how you manage personal data

With Sentry on your side, managing your GDPR responsibilities can be straightforward.
